THE OHIO VALLEY SCHOOL TOURNAMENT.

A New Educational Departure,
Which Has Proven a Most Brilliant Success.

The Marion Schools, as Usual, Gallantly Uphold the Honor of the Flag

AND PROVE VICTORS OVER ALL COMPETITORS.

The newest thing in the way of an educational gathering in this section of the state convened here Thursday morning last, April 28th and held over Friday and Saturday, the 29th and 30th. This was the Ohio Valley Tournament, composed of the teachers and pupils of the Marion graded school and the schools of Hopkinsville, Corydon and Morganfield.

Prof N. C. Curry, Principal of the Blackford school, read from the Scriptures and opened the meeting with prayer.

The address of welcome, couched in terms of good fellowship, was delivered by Mr. Clement S. Nunn, and his greeting to the strangers within our gates was such as to make them all feel "at home," and glad they were with us. Indeed this feeling was in the air and everybody was happy.

At 9 o'clock President Charles Evans presiding, opened the Tournament. The city had taken on a gala day appearance and everything was life and bustle. Large delegations had come in from Hopkinsville, with Prof Taylor and Miss Mary Walker, assistant, and 50 pupils; from Morganfield, with Prof Burton and Alton, and Misses Mary Chambers and Bessie Blue, assistant teachers, and 40 pupils; from Corydon with Prof Hamlet and Spalding, and Miss Claypool and 30 pupils.

The exercises were extremely interesting and all the contests spirited and every inch of ground fought with vigor, but all in the most harmonious way. A spirit of good fellowship sprang up between the different cities on account of this intermingling which will last throughout life.

The judges were chosen from sections of the state not represented in this Tournament, and were strangers to all the contestants. They were:

To the Public.

On the 6th day of January, last, we purchased of Bigham & Browning the stock of hardware and farm implements for the purpose of engaging in a legitimate and reputable business. We wish to state that we have increased our stock and took particular pains to secure a full and complete line of goods in order to supply our trade with all the leading articles kept in a first-class hardware stock. Some of our articles were obtained from other merchants who had them in stock and were willing to sell them to us, however, we find that that is a common custom and that our firm is not the only one in town selling goods purchased in that way. We wish to state that we are very much pleased to announce that our trade is rapidly increasing, and we certainly feel very grateful to our customers. We hold no malice toward our competitors. We expect to keep a large stock of goods, our doors always stand open, and we solicit your trade upon fair and just dealings. We shall take no further notice of the ads. of our impetuous competitors, but will meet all fair and just competition. As we expect our dealings with the public to prove our full appreciation of their trade with us, we are willing to submit the case to them as judge and jury. Believe us, we are sincere.

Very cordially,
Marion Hardware Company.

In Memory of James H. Clifton.

To write of the dead is a sacred task for there is no response from the grave. On all occasions we speak of our departed with tender respect, and know what each one was to those around them only when the barque of immortality has passed forever from the shores of Time. Therefore we write reverently of the subject of this sketch.

James H. Clifton was born April 4, 1835, at Clarksville, Tenn. He came to Kentucky in 1859. On May 20, 1863, by Rev Riley Eads, he was married to Miss Margaret McLarny. His wife and 7 children survive him, 5 children having passed on before his death, which occurred at Dycusburg March 28, 1904.

Mr. Clifton was more than an ordinary man. His intellectual endowments and his aggressive nature developed into a successful life and gave him an elevation peculiarly his own.

He was for decades a leading citizen of our town (Dycusburg), and of Crittenden county. In what ever age or place destiny may have cast his life, he would have taken a rank worthy to be coveted, for so nature moulded him. Essentially he was what an American citizen may become by individual merit, even though inheritance bequeaths to him neither shakels of gold nor landed estates. That which makes life most enjoyable he attained. He was successful in business and was honored by his family and friends. He learned readily from experience and observation, and communicated to the advantage of those in whom he was interested; thus his counsel was sought and valued, and his influence became patriarchal.

He advocated the observance of our civil laws. Truthfully we can state that he honored him as a citizen, we esteemed his character, cherished his friendship, and we revere his memory. His death is truly a family and a local bereavement, but it is more. He was a Mason in high standing and his loss to Dycusburg lodge is seriously felt. As age and affliction made inroads on his robust constitution his affections still clung to his surroundings, friends and family; but when the grim destroyer cast his shadow over him he recognized the fiat of the supreme Law-Giver and his words were like these: "I would love to live to be with my wife and children, but if God so wills I am ready to die."

After his long life here it remains for him in another world to work out a higher destiny. His death is his gain. At present it is his loved ones loss. Aptly they can say:—
"One family we dwell in Him,
One church above, beneath,
Though now divided by the stream
The narrow stream of death.
One army of the living God,
To His command we bow
Part of His host has crossed the flood
And part are crossing now."

COCHRAN & PICKENS, Marion, Kentucky.

LOOKS LIKE JAMES.

He May be a Delegate at Large From Kentucky.

It is generally believed that the Gibraltar of Kentucky Democracy, the First congressional district, will be allowed to name one of the four delegates at large from this state to the national Democratic convention at St. Louis. It is generally conceded that Senators McCreary and Blackburn will be two of the delegates, and Gov. Beckham is often mentioned for the third place. Sentiment appears to be in favor of conferring the fourth place on a man from one of the thirteen counties composing this congressional district. Thus far three names have been mentioned frequently in connection with the place—Congressman Ollie M. James, of Marion; ex-Congressman Chas. K. Wheeler, of Paducah; and Circuit Judge W. M. Reed, also of that city.

Mr. Wheeler has repeatedly stated that he was in no sense a candidate for delegate at large or any other place, but his friends, notably State Chairman Allie Young, and other influential Democrats, insist upon him for the place. Judge Reed is wrapped up in his duties in the circuit court and is not inclined to seek the honor, but Mr. James is willing, it is said, to be one of the delegates at large.

A boom for him was started by the First district committee when it met at Paducah in March, and now the movement is receiving a decided impetus. A telegram from Washington says:

"Democrats of the First congressional district will present the name of Congressman Ollie M. James to the State convention as a candidate for delegate at large to the national convention. They assert that Mr. James' services on the party stump and his services in the House entitled him to that recognition. Mr. James says he has received letters from all parts of the state pledging support and while he would appreciate the honor, he has not announced his candidacy and is willing for the state convention to make the selection."

Whooping Cough.

"In the spring of 1901 my children had whooping cough," says Mrs. D. W. Capps, of Capps, Ala. "I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy with the most satisfactory results. I think this is the best remedy I have ever seen for whooping cough." This remedy keeps the cough loose, lessens the severity and frequency of the coughing spells and counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. For sale by Woods & Orme.

Missing Girl.

The following article appeared in several Kentucky papers recently:

"The 15-year-old girl, Sarah Wade, an orphan who made her home with R. H. Baker, near Princeton, and disappeared some time ago, has been found at Earlington. F. M. Jackson, city marshal at Dawson Springs, went there and carried the child to the Kentucky Children's Home, who had offered a reward for her."

The above is a mistake. Sarah Wade was not found in this city, and Earlington officers know nothing of her.—Earlington Bea.

Accept No Substitute.

There is nothing just as good for Malaria, Chills and Fever as Dr. Mendenhall's Chill and Fever Cure. Take it as a general tonic and at all times in place of quinine. If it fails to give satisfaction mail the front of the cartoon to J. C. Mendenhall, Evansville, Ind., and get your money back.

At a recent meeting of the ministers of Madisonville the game of "finch" was placed in the same class as euchre, as of course, it should be. Both are card games and both lead to gambling. The difference between the two is in favor of the latter, inasmuch as the temptation to cheat is so much greater in finch than euchre.

LETTER FROM FLORIDA.

DADE CITY, FLA., April 21, 1904.—ED. PRESS: A good rain fell here on April 9th, reviving all vegetation very much. Cucumbers, squash, cabbage, beans, peas, lettuce, egg plant, dewberries, strawberries, grape fruit, etc., etc., being shipped every day; also the fine new Irish potatoes and green onions, which are hard to beat.

Corn, oats, rye, and all the field crops are looking fine. They make from 10 to 25 bushels of corn per acre; velvet beans and cow peas grow in abundance; alfalfa does fine, it is now over waist high and being cut for hay; sugar cane is equal to that of Louisiana.

There are fine lakes in every direction, filled with the finest of fish, principally the same kinds of fish we have in our lakes and rivers, but much larger; I saw one trout weighing 11½ lbs; I am told they catch them weighing over 19 pounds.

Property is cheap here. Dade City is the county site of Pasco county; has 700 population, fine school, 3 fine churches, Presbyterian, Baptist and Methodist, 2 R. R.'s, 1 bank, 1 paper, 1 drug store, 3 general stores, 2 dry goods and notion stores, 2 millinery stores, 1 butcher shop, 1 mill, 2 blacksmith shops, 1 barber shop, no saloon, 2 livery stables, 1 hotel of 30 rooms but not open, owing to litigation. One opening for good hotel man.

The climate here is near the same every day the year round. Being in the high lake region the changes are not so sudden as they are on the coast, and we get the pure salt breeze from both gulf and ocean.

I like the climate here because I feel better all the time. I wish the Press success. With regards to all, I am,

Very truly,
FOSTER THRELKELD,
Dade City, Fla., Pasco Co.

The Black Snow-Cloud.

BY O. G. W.

Who would have thought such whiteness lay concealed Within the bosom of so black a pall?

Who, that such strange white peace the cloud could yield, When death's black moment overshadows all?

An Open Letter.

From the Chapin, S. C., News: Early in the spring my wife and I were taken with diarrhoea and so severe were the pains that we called a physician who prescribed for us, but his medicines failed to give any relief. A friend who had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy on hand gave each of us a dose and we at once felt the effects. I procured a bottle and before using the entire contents we were entirely cured. It is a wonderful remedy and should be found in every household. H. C. Bailey, Editor. This remedy is for sale by Woods & Orme.

ALICE OF OLD VINCENNES

By MAURICE THOMPSON

Copyright, 1900, by the
BOWEN-MERRILL COMPANY

He gathered the two girls in his mighty arms, tussling them with rough tenderness. Alice returned his affectionate embrace and told him where to find Mme. Roussillon, who was with Thane Godere, probably at her house.

"Nobody killed," he said, in answer to Alice's inquiry about the catastrophe at the fort. "Some of 'em hurt and burnt a little. Great big scare about nearly nothing. Zif! my children, you should have seen me quiet things. I put out my hands this way—comme ça—pouf! It was all over. The people went home."

His gestures indicated that he had borne back an army with open hands. Then he chuckled Adrienne under the chin with his finger and added in his softest voice:

"I saw somebody's lover the other day over yonder in the Indian village. He spoke to me about somebody—eh, ma petite, que voulez-vous dire?"

"Oh, Papa Roussillon, we were just talking about Rene!" cried Alice. "Have you seen him?"

"I saw you, you little minx, jumping into a man's arms right under the eyes of a whole garrison! Bah! I could not believe it was my little Alice!"

He let go a grand guffaw which seemed to shake the cabin's walls. Alice blushed cherry red. Adrienne, too, blushed to inquire about Rene. The truth was not in Gaspard Roussillon just then, or if it was it stayed in him, for he had not seen Rene de Ronville. It was his generous desire to please and to appear opulent of knowledge and sympathy that made him speak. He knew what would please Adrienne, so why not give her at least a delicious foretaste? Surely, when a thing was so cheap one need not be so parsimonious as to withhold a mere anticipation. He was off before the girls could press him into details, for indeed he had none.

"There, now, what did I tell you?" cried Alice when the big man was gone. "I told you Rene would come. They always come back."

Father Beret came in a little later. As soon as he saw Alice he frowned and began to shake his head, but she only laughed and, imitating his hypocritical scowl, yet fringing it with a twinkle of merry lines and dimples, pointed a taper finger at him and exclaimed:

"You bad, bad man! Why did you pretend to me that Lieutenant Beverley was dead? What sinister ecclesiastical motive prompted you to describe how Long Hair scalped him? Ah, father!"

The priest laid a broad hand over her saucy mouth.

"Something or other seems to have excited you mightily, ma fille. You are a trifle impulsively inclined today."

"Yes, Father Beret; yes, I know, and I am ashamed. My heart shrinks when I think of what I did. But I was so glad, such a grand joy came all over me when I saw him so strong and brave and beautiful coming toward me, smiling that warm, glad smile and holding out his arms—ah, when I saw all that—when I knew for sure that he was not dead, I, why, father—I just had to. I couldn't help it."

Father Beret laughed in spite of himself, but quickly managed to resume his severe countenance.

"Ta, ta!" he exclaimed. "It was a bold thing for a little girl to do."

"So it was, so it was. But it was also a bold thing for him to do to come back after he was dead and scalped and look so handsome and grand! I'm ashamed and sorry, father, but I'm afraid I might do it again if—well, I don't care if I did! So there, now!"

"But what in the world are you talking about?" interposed Adrienne. Evidently they were discussing a most interesting matter of which she knew nothing and that did not suit her feminine curiosity. "Tell me." She pulled Father Beret's sleeve. "Tell me, I say!"

It is probable that Father Beret would have pretended to betray Alice's source of mingled delight and embarrassment had not the rest of the Bourcier household returned in time to break up the conversation. A little later Alice gave Adrienne a vividly dramatic account of the whole scene.

"Ah, mon Dieu!" exclaimed the petite Brunette after she had heard the exciting story. "That was just like you, Alice. You always do superb things. You were born to do them. You shoot Captain Farnsworth, you wound Lieutenant Barlow, you climb on to the fort, and set up your flag; you take it down again and run away with it, you get shot and you don't die, you kiss your lover right before a whole garrison! Bon Dieu! If I could but do all those things!" She clasped her tiny hands before her and added rather dejectedly:

"But I couldn't, I couldn't. I couldn't kiss a man in that way!"

Late in the evening news came to Roussillon place, where Gaspard Roussillon was once more happy in the midst of his little family, that the Indian Long Hair had just been brought to the fort and would be shot on the following day. A scouting party captured him as he approached the town bearing at his belt the fresh scalp of a white man. He would have been killed forthwith, but Clark, who wished to avoid a repetition of the savage vengeance meted out to the Indians on the previous day, had given strict orders that all prisoners should be brought in to the fort, where they were to have a fair trial by court martial.

Both Helm and Beverley were at Roussillon place, the former sipping wine and chatting with Gaspard, the latter, of course, hovering around Alice after the manner of a hungry bee around a particularly sweet and deliciously refractory flower. It was raining slowly, the fine drops coming straight down through the cold, still February air, but the two young people found it pleasant enough for them on the veranda, where they walked back and forth, making fair exchange of the exciting experiences which had befallen them during their long separation. Between the lines of these mutual recitals sweet, fresh echoes of the old, old story went from heart to heart, an amaranth love bout like that of spring birds calling tenderly back and forth in the blooming Maytime woods.

Both Captain Helm and M. Roussillon were delighted to hear of Long Hair's capture and certain fate, but neither of them regarded the news as of sufficient importance to need much comment. They did not think of telling Beverley and Alice, Jean, however, lying awake in his little bed, overheard the conversation, which he repeated to Alice next morning with great circumstantiality.

Having the quick insight bred of frontier experience, Alice instantly caught the terrible significance of the dilemma in which she and Beverley would be placed by Long Hair's situation. Moreover, something in her heart arose with irresistible power demanding the final, the absolute human sympathy and gratitude. No matter what deeds Long Hair had committed that were evil beyond forgiveness, he had done for her the all atoning thing. He had saved Beverley and sent him back to her.

With a start and a chill of dread, she thought, "What if it is already too late?"

But her nature could not hesitate. To feel the demand of an exigency was to act. She snatched a wrap from its peg on the wall and ran as fast as she could to the fort. People who met her flying along wondered, staring after her, what could be urging her so that she saw nobody, checked herself for nothing, ran splashing through the puddles.

Woman never looked more thrillingly beautiful to man than she did just then to all those rough, stern backwoodsmen. During her flight her hair had fallen down, and it glimmered like soft sunlight around her face. Something compelling flashed out of her eyes, an expression between a triumphant smile and a ray of irresistible beseechment. It took Colonel Clark's breath when he turned and saw her standing there and heard her words.

"This man saved Lieutenant Beverley's life," she presently added, getting

A $25.00 Bed Room Suite will be given away. They lead him to the box, then the other two will take their seats in the rear of the room. The man who wears the hood-wink will raise the lid, draw one of the 12 tickets, placing it in the envelope and sealing it. He will then close the lid to the box, remove the hood-wink, take the box and remaining tickets and place them in the fire, burn them up. One thousand tickets will be placed in envelopes same as lucky number and placed in shoe case. Customers will draw one envelope from the case, place his name on envelope and drop in ballot box, keys to which are held by the committee, which will be opened on closing day of contest by the committee. The one holding same number as held by committee gets the suite free. Not a living soul will know what the lucky number is until close of contest and opened by the committee, who will take and carefully examined customers' numbers. Marion Wins Banner.

The Exposition work displayed by the Marion Graded Schools, was simply fine and was not equalled in any particular. Morganfield was the only entry, the others realizing that it was useless, and her display was excellent, but the judge couldn't fail to see Marion's paramount lead in this line and rightfully gave her the banner.

Death of Mrs. O. K. Vincent.

Mr. D. H. Robertson, in a letter, from Mountain Grove, Mo., to the editor of the Press dated April 15 says: "I enclose you a clipping from the Mountain Grove Journal which contains sad news to a great many people of your county. Mrs. Annie Vincent and her first husband, Willie Cook, were both raised near Weston, and each had many friends in that community."

The death of Mrs. O. K. Vincent occurred last Sunday after a brief illness. Mrs. Vincent was highly esteemed and her death was a severe shock to the community.

Her maiden name was Jarrel. She was twice married. To Wm. L. Cook Oct. 30, 1884, and to this union were born two daughters, one of whom preceded her mother to the land beyond the shadows. The other, Miss Ethel, lives to mourn her sad loss. Who can tell the loss of mother?

She was married to O. K. Vincent Dec. 21, 1895. To this union have come Chester and Kenneth, two bright boys, whose bereavement can not be measured by any human calculation. Sister Vincent gave her heart to God early in life. For a number of years she was a member of the M. E. church here. Grace had wrought a deep work in her soul and her life was the spirit of self sacrifice. Her love and devotion were divided between the church her home, sharing each its 'proportion' but her supreme love was for God. As she loved Him most He stretched forth his hand and took her to Himself. And here is the secret that a mother would calmly bid home and loved ones a long good-bye and willingly enter the Valley.

We are all bereft—the church and community will miss Sister Vincent, but none of us can feel the loss as do those at home. The faithful hands that ministered are folded on her breast, and the voice is hushed forever.

On Saturday, knowing the end was near, she gave all her final blessing and farewell. She was not alarmed. Why should she be? Like a child fleeing to its mother's arms, she hastened away to her Father's house, where she might be forever at rest.

The funeral services were held in the M. E. church, conducted by the pastor, and was largely attended. The interment was in the new cemetery.—R. D. Jones in Mountain Grove (Mo.) Journal.

Ladies and Children

Who can not stand the shocking strain of laxative syrups and cathartic pills are especially fond of Little Early Risers. All persons who find it necessary to take a liver medicine should try these easy pills, and compare the agreeably pleasant and strengthening effect with the nauseating and weakening conditions following the use of other remedies. Little Early Risers cure biliousness, constipation, sick headache, jaundice, malaria and liver troubles. Sold by all druggists.

This Beats Ann.

An exchange says: "Five men, A, B, C, D, and E. meet, each of whom owed the other $5. They only had $1 apiece. A, who was a 'Napoleon of Finance,' after some thought, said he could fix it all right, so he told each one of the four to give him his dollar. He put them in with the one he had, and handed the $5 to B and took his receipt. B paid C and took his receipt, who then paid D and D paid E who then handed the $5 to A taking his receipt. Does it not appear that each man is $1 ahead in the game except A, who has not only paid his $5 debt with $1 but has $5 in cash? Who, if any one, is the loser in this transaction?"

Doesn't Respect Old Age.

It's shameful when youth fails to show proper respect for old age, but just the contrary in the case of Dr. King's New Life Pills. They cut off maladies no matter how severe and irrespective of old age. Dyspepsia, jaundice, fevers, constipation all yield to this perfect pill. 25c. at Woods & Orme's drug store

SAVED BY HER HAIR.

Clarksville, Tenn., April 18.—Miss Eunice Newton, the pretty daughter of J. M. Newton, a prominent citizen of Gothrie, Ky., has just returned from the South, where she has been for several months teaching art.

Miss Newton recently had a narrow escape from death, the particulars of which are given in letters to friends here. She, in company with six friends, went sailing on the Gulf recently, and when some distance from shore a storm came up, and the small craft was upset. Five of the party were drowned, Miss Newman and a male companion being the only ones saved. They both managed to cling to the keel of the boat, and were in the water twenty hours before help came and they were rescued. Miss Newton's long hair became so heavy from being in the water so long a time and she was so weak from exposure and the exciting circumstances that her head was repeatedly forced under the water, and it was with almost superhuman efforts that she managed to retain her hold upon the boat and keep her head above the waves. The gentleman who, with her, was saved, finally managed to secure his pocket knife and, opening it with his teeth, cut the girl's hair off, thus lightening the burthen she carried. Miss Newton is now at home, none the worse for her exciting experiences except for the loss of her luxuriant locks.

Not a Sick Day Since.

"I was taken severely sick with kid-trouble. I tried all sorts of medicines, none of which relieved me. One day I saw an ad. of your Electric Bitters and determined to try that. After taking a few doses I felt relieved, and soon thereafter was entirely cured, and have not seen a sick day since. Neighbors of mine have been cured of rheumatism, neuralgia, liver and kidney troubles and general debility." This is what B. F. Bass, of Fremont, N. C., writes. Only 50c. at Woods & Orme's.

Ida Pilant and children visited her brother, J. W. Blackburn, Sunday. He and his family start for Washington Tuesday.

Willie and Robert Pilant, and Roxie and Ray Oliver took in the Dycusburg show. They say it was grand.

Mrs. Essie Martin, a daughter of A. J. Bennett, has been very ill, but is some better.

Hugh Martin and wife visited his brother, Harry Saturday and Sunday.

The young people met at H. C. Rice, Jr.'s Saturday evening and a good time was the result.

PROTECT THE BIBLE,

Friends of the Bible declare the time to have arrived when assaults upon the Scriptures should be repelled. They have organized an American Bible League—American because they propose to inaugurate a campaign that shall extend throughout the nation; Bible because we believe it to be the Word of God; and League because they are banded together for an opposition to the higher critics that they assert is to be both united and determined. Recent large meetings of men, eminent as instructors of the young, who declare under the guise of critical scholarship that that they are truth seekers and nothing more, have aroused the defenders of inspired Scriptures. The latter declare that something must be done if anything is to remain. It is Bible or no Bible, they say. Crime is on the increase, as statistics show, and one chief cause of it is the fact that God's Word is openly discredited.

The vigorous League already engages in warfare. It announces a convention of defenders of the Bible as it is, and declares that it finds interest in its work of Bible defense so great that people are to attend the convention from every portion of the country. Special railroad rates are being arranged. That the League considers the situation grave is shown by the fact that the opening meeting at this convention will have for its subject "The Present Assault on the Bible." The convention is to be held in the Marble Collegiate Reformed Church, New York City. The dates are May 3, 4 and 5; the Pastor of the church named is the Rev Dr. David James Burrell, himself a defender of an inspired Bible, and enjoying a national reputation as a preacher.

The opening address, which is expected to set the keynote for the meeting, will be delivered by the Rev Dr Francis L. Patton, the President of Princeton Theological Seminary and former President of Princeton University. This address will set forth the nature of the present assault and point out its unparalleled danger. The President of the League, Mr. Wm Phillips Hall, the well known business man who takes such prominent interest in the religious welfare of the people, and in the progress of America, will occupy the chair.

That the assault is regarded as a death one is shown by the fact that the topic of the first morning session will point out the practical consequences of the attack. This attack is producing demoralization of conduct and of education, and is having tremendous influence, all of it baneful, upon the ministry and upon missions. The addresses on this topic will be delivered by Rev Dr Albert Plumb, a leading Congregational pastor of Boston, and the Rev Dr J B Remensnyder, pastor of the principal Lutheran Church in New York, and one of the best known leaders of the Lutheran General Synod. Discussions will follow by the Rev Dr J Boss Stevenson, pastor of Dr John Hall's old New York church; the Rev Dr Booth, a former Presbyterian Moderator; Bishop Sabine of the Reformed Episcopal church, and the Rev Dr D J Burrell of the Reformed church.

On the same day, and following in the evening, vital topics like the following will be discussed: "The Groundlessness of the Present Rationalistic Claims" the aim being to show that the claims now put forth by the higher critics as assaults are the same old heretical claims of past ages. It will also be shown that these rationalistic arguments go directly to undermine the principles of the New Testament, and later on in the discussions it will also be shown that higher criticism is not without its fad, including an evolutionary one. Speakers include Prof Howard Osgood of Rochester Seminary, who was one of the revisers of the Bible under the American committee; President Weidener of the Theological Seminary of Chicago, and other eminent men.

The closing session of the convention will talk over the best way to remedy present evils. The League's method is to concentrate popular attention upon a mastery of the Bible and what is in it. Addresses will be made by members of the League, and especially upon methods of reaching and influencing the young.

The formidable array of speakers can hardly, as will be seen, be duplicated in America. Almost all evangelical bodies are represented. Such a list of speakers at any convention in recent years has rarely been equaled.

So intense has the feeling come to be of late that official organs of different bodies, such as the Christian Endeavor and others, have found it essential to speak out in favor of an inspired Bible, and deploring the assaults of the higher critics. They admit that unless a stand is taken on the safe side, and that immediately, there will be no Bible worth preserving.

One of the greatest blessings a modest man can wish for is a good reliable set of towels. If you are not the happy possessor of such an outfit you can greatly improve the efficiency of those you have by the judicious use of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They are pleasant to take and agreeable in effect. For sale by Woods & Orme.

A Positive Necessity.

Having to lay upon my bed for 14 days from a severely bruised leg, I only found relief when I used a bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment. I can cheerfully recommend it as the best medicine for bruises ever sent to the afflicted. It has now become a positive necessity upon myself. D. R. Byrnes, Merchant, Droversville, Texas. 25c., 50c., $1.00. Sold by Woods & Orme.

Some time since a woman was riding on a train on the Southern Railway. Two men got on the train and while the conductor was absent, the men hugged the woman. She brought suit against the road and got judgment for $25,000 damage for the insult. The higher court has reversed the decision and says the road was in no way responsible for the deed. If the same woman had been kissed in a post office, the government would not pay for the supposed insult, or if she had been kissed in some dry goods store under the same conditions, the proprietor would not have been held responsible. It is easier to get a $10,000 judgment against a corporation than it is a $10 judgement against a private individual.

LIVER TROUBLES

"I find Theford's Black-Draught a good medicine for liver disease. It cured my son after he had spent $100 with doctors. It is all the medicine I take."—MRS. CAROLINE MARTIN, Parkersburg, W. Va.

If your liver does not act regularly go to your druggist and secure a package of Theford's Black-Draught and take a dose tonight. This great family medicine frees the constipated bowels, stirs up the torpid liver and causes a healthy secretion of bile.

Theford's Black-Draught will cleanse the bowels of impurities and strengthen the kidneys. A torpid liver invites colds, biliousness, chills and fever and all manner of sickness and contagion. Weak kidneys result in Bright's disease which claims as many victims as consumption. A 25-cent package of Theford's Black-Draught should always be kept in the house.

"I used Theford's Black-Draught for liver and kidney complaints and found it doing to excel."—WILLIAM COFFMAN, Marblehead, Ill.

THEFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

Strike a Balance.

The difficulty with most of us is to learn to live sensibly and sanely. We are in danger of going to extremes. We either take life too seriously, or we dabble about it like a lazybones. The thing is to strike an effective middle course. Most of us nowadays seem to regard it as a great mill in which the earlier we go to work and the later we stay, the better for all concerned. We want to do great deeds; to accumulate a lot of money; to reform somebody or something. Now, it is certainly wrong not to be awake to our privileges and opportunities for work and not to get joy out of doing something that will make the world happier. But there is a time to loaf and be glad also. There is virtue in being a happy citizen, as well as an active one. Life is serious, but not so serious that we need go about with a sour countenance and a book of rules. The wise man is the one who hits a nice balance in his affairs, who is neither wearisomely strenuous nor a flaccid shirk.—May Woman's Home Companion.

Exposure

To cold draughts of air, to keen and cutting winds, sudden changes of temperature, scanty clothing, undue exposure of the throat and neck after public speaking and singing, bring on coughs and colds. Ballard's Horehound Syrup is the best cure.

Mrs. A. Barr, Houston Texas writes, Jan. 31, 1902: "One bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup cured me of a very bad cough. It is very pleasant to take." 25c., 50c., $1.00. Sold by Woods & Orme.

Miss Beatrice Dunn, of Franklin, had published in a newspaper that she wanted a husband and there was nothing in that market that suited her. She is 22 years old, up to date and a daughter of a well to do farmer. Fifty-eight young men responded and she selected Eugene Zimmerman, of Peoria, Ill. After a short graphic correspondence he arrived there and in less than six hours they were quietly married by the Rev. J. H. Dashwood. Her parents are pleased with their new son-in-law.

Had No Use for Her.

A certain small village in the west, far removed from the noise and bustle of commerce, boasts a female preacher, and the lady's duties are many. One day she may visit the sick, another attend a funeral and the next baptize a baby. One afternoon she was preparing a sermon for the coming Sabbath when she heard a timid knock knock at the parsonage door. Answering the summons, she found a bashful young German standing on the step twirling his straw hat in his hands.

"Good afternoon," the preacher remarked. "What do you want?"

"Dey say de minister lifted in dis house, heh?"

"Yes sir."

"Yees; Vell, I want me to kit married."

"All right; I can marry you."

The lady's hair is beginning to silver and the German glanced at it. Then he jammed his hat on his head and hurried down the path.

"What's the matter?" she called after him.

"You gits no chance mit me; I don't vont you; I got me a girl alretty."

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol cures indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure does not only cure indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy cures all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.

Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravenswood, W. Va., says: "I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk for baby."
